The Maputo-Katembe bridge (Ponte de Maputo a Katembe) is a suspension bridge across Maputo Bay in southern Mozambique. Construction work began in 2014 and the bridge. Driving from South Africa to Mozambique has quietly become one of the easiest international road trips in Southern Africa. The completion of the Maputo-Katembe Bridge and the fully tarred southern access roads has fundamentally changed how travellers reach Maputo, Ponta do Ouro, and the wider. The Maputo-Katembe Bridge, also known as Ponte de Maputo-Katembe, is a significant infrastructure project in Mozambique, connecting the capital city of Maputo (on the northern bank) with the Katembe district (on the southern bank) over Maputo Bay. Opened in November 2018, the 3-kilometer suspension bridge the longest in Africa was built by the China Road and Bridge. For a long time, the Mozambicans have envisioned making the country accessible from north to south via roads and motorways and, in particular, to create a connection to Swaziland and South Africa.
