Article Overview

Cote d'Ivoire hosts key fiber optic cable manufacturers such as O'fiber Factory and Cote d'Ivoire Cables, providing high-quality production and network deployment services.

O'fiber Factory

O'fiber Factory is a leading manufacturer and assembler of fiber optic cables in Cote d'Ivoire, serving industrial and commercial clients across Africa . The company produces a wide range of cables, including:

- o Compact cables with small capacities (6-12 fibers)
- o UNIGAIN cables for long-distance networks and industrial applications, featuring central tube designs with reduced diameters for cost efficiency
- o High-capacity modular cables with up to 864 fibers for large-scale deployments O'fiber Factory emphasizes quality and aims to obtain certifications such as ISO, ICE, and IFC, ensuring compliance with international standards .

Cote d'Ivoire Cables (CIC)

Cote d'Ivoire Cables, a 100% subsidiary of Orange Cote d'Ivoire since 2020, specializes in fiber optic network infrastructure, maintenance, and modernization . Key services include:

- o Fiber optic network deployment and maintenance
- o Backhaul and backbone network support
- o Production of as-built plans (TQC) and metrology
- o FTTH project production and Wi-Fi integration CIC operates nationwide and also exports expertise regionally, supporting the country's digital transformation initiatives .

National Fiber Optic Deployment

Cote d'Ivoire is actively expanding its fiber optic network, with plans to deploy 5,207 kilometers of fiber optic cable in the near term, contributing to a total of 7,000 km nationwide by 2025 . This rollout is part of a broader strategy to enhance high-speed internet access, bridge the digital divide, and support socio-economic development. Key partners in this initiative include Axians, Sagemcom, and Bouygues Energies & Services .
